

Lunch & Learn: Building a Dispute Resolution Toolbox for Your Business

A Conversation with ICC Court President Claudia Salomon

Phoenix & online | 12 January | 12pm MST

Attendance options

In-person (limited): Sherman & Howard, 2555 East Camelback Road, Suite 1050, Phoenix, AZ 85016

Online: link to be provided in due course

Description

Are you:

- responsible for cross-border agreements at your organization?
- advising businesses on dispute avoidance and resolution mechanisms?
- looking for ways to manage and mitigate disputes and risks in contracts?
- considering dispute avoidance and resolution tools other than litigation?

If so, this lunch & learn program is for you!

Please join Claudia Salomon, President of the ICC International Court of Arbitration, and David B. Wilson, former Vice Chair of the ICC Commission on Arbitration and ADR, for an interactive discussion that will help corporate counsel and law firm practitioners to decide which dispute avoidance and resolution tools are right for your business or clients. This program is ideal for anyone who does business internationally and would like to learn more about key features of the International Chamber of Commerce's (ICC) dispute avoidance and resolution services. Participants will have the opportunity to ask questions, learn from each other, and provide feedback about their experience with arbitration and other ADR tools. Time will also be spent on innovations and practical tips to save time and costs, particularly when drafting dispute resolution clauses that provide for arbitration, and how to better align arbitration with the needs and expectations of businesses.

This free event will be held in person & online. Limited in-person tickets are available. The in-person lunch will begin at noon MST, and the program will start at 12:15 MST and conclude at 1:30 MST. Register here

Co-Organized with:

Sponsored by:

Supported By:

